Mimiko, who gave the charge during a courtesy call by new defectors from opposition parties in the state to the Labour Party, said public office holders must pay attention to the welfare of the less privileged in the society.

He said more opportunities would be provided for the youth in the state in the areas of agriculture, renewable energy and information communication technology (ICT) this year.

In their speeches, two former members of the Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) in the state, Mrs Olunife Olotu and Alhaja Funmilola Oluwadare, said their defection was informed by the achievements of Mimiko administration.
